Man charged in alleged Internet fraud

Ottawa police have charged a man after the organized fraud section received a complaint from a woman allegedly defrauded of money after using Internet dating sites. Police said the woman placed an ad on Internet dating sites and received a response from a man who claimed to have been a lawyer for a major airline. Police said the man is wanted for similar offences in Calgary and Halifax. Duncan James Ryan, 47, of no fixed address, appears in Ottawa court on July 3. METRO OTTAWA

Exhibit gets the royal stamp

Display of rare artifacts depicts British, Canadian postal history

TRACEY TONG

tracey.tong@metronews.ca

At first, the Queen's stamp collection might not be your cup of (English) tea, but there's still lots of reasons for the Canadian commoner to visit Her Majesty's Stamps, the new exhibit opening at the Canadian Museum of Civilization Friday.

More than 400 rare stamps from Britain and Canada and artifacts collected by several generations of British monarchs and kept by the Royal Philatelic Collection will be displayed together for the only time in Canada.

The exhibition is divided into four zones: A Royal Collection, which talks about the monarchs who collect; The Birth of the Modern British Post, which shows the world's first postage stamps, the Penny Black and Twopenny Blue; Canada Gains Its Postal Autonomy, and Canadian Treasures.

"Visitors won't want to miss many other famous but rarely seen pieces, such as an album of Canadian stamps commemorating Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897, and the first Canadian postage stamp, the Three Penny Beaver," said Bianca Gendreau, curator of the Canadian Postal Museum.

The collection also includes three stamps which may have been ordered by Metis leader Louis Riel and rare stamps depicting Charles Connell, the postmaster general of New Brunswick who put his own likeness on a stamp in 1860, prompting his resignation.

The exhibit is designed to appeal to everyone, said Michael Sefi, keeper of the collection.

The exhibit runs through Jan. 3, 2010.

City meets with LRT technology experts

tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

In a few years, the first section of rails will be laid down from Tunney's Pasture to Blair Station and the city is looking for the best technology to run along those tracks.

Normally, technological issues are settled at the same time as the Transportation Master Plan, but given the important nature of converting the Transitway to trains and building the downtown tunnel, the city's general manager of transit services Alain Mercier said it is important to take the time to get the best view going forward.

On Friday, city transit planners meet with representatives from other North American LRT systems, including Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Pittsburgh, New Jersey and San Francisco as well as senior talent from manufacturers like Alstom, Bombardier and Kinkisharyo.

"We've done a broad survey of the types of technologies," said Mercier. "Now we're focusing on what will work best to give us a high level of service, system reliability and the lowest lifecycle cost."

Public welcome

On Saturday morning, residents are invited to a LRT technology forum at city hall to hear from the experts and share their feedback.

Mercier said they are looking at a range of technologies, like how the trains are powered, the level of automation, the types of vehicle that could be in the fleet, the signalling systems, high-floor versus low-floor vehicles, and how it would all work with Ottawa's climate.

City staff will make a recommendation to council on the preferred train technology for the transit system in September.

Aboriginal fest aims to bring communities together

The people, not the politics.

That's what this weekend's Aboriginal Arts Festival is all about, according to co-ordinator Trina Mather-Simard.

In celebration of National Aboriginal Day on Sunday, the free festival, running

Friday through Sunday, aims to educate both Aboriginals and non-Aboriginals about the cultures and contributions of First Nations, Métis and Inuit peoples to Canada.

"Our goal is to bring the larger community together," said Mather-Simard.

The main festival events on Saturday and Sunday take place on Victoria Island, a historically sacred Aboriginal spot still used for ceremonies and gatherings.

Events include a concert series from Aboriginal talent from all across Canada, an Inuit circus troupe, and an Aboriginal Canada, We Got Talent! competition.

More than 20,000 people are expected to attend.

All are welcome at powwow

More than 1,000 people expected to attend annual event

TIM WIECLAWSKI
tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

There seems to be a misconception in the general public that powwows are only open to First Nations people, said Doug Comegan.

But that's not the case with the Noongam Powwow, which takes place this weekend.

"We're trying to educate the general public," said Comegan, the powwow co-ordinator. "They just assume that it's not open to them, but it is. We practice inclusion."

For centuries, First Nations people gathered at powwows to dance, drum, sing eat, and share stories, said Comegan.

Comegan is expecting more than 1,000 people to attend the powwow at

Queen Juliana Park near Dow's Lake this weekend, many of whom are coming from across Ontario, Quebec and the United States.

Sunrise ceremonies will take place on Saturday and Sunday morning, with free breakfast for people taking part, said volunteer Jill Finlayson. Saturday evening is also the community feast.

This is the 12th year that the Noongam Powwow has taken place in Ottawa, and while they do it to share their culture with everyone, Comegan said it is important that next generation learn to take pride in their identity as a Native person.

"Sometimes young people struggle in life and we thought we could leave something behind for them to hold onto to help with their self-esteem, so they could know who they are."

Light Rail Transit (LRT) Technology Forum

Saturday, June 20, 2009, Ottawa City Hall
8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Ottawa City Council approved the Transportation Master Plan (TMP) in November 2008, including a vision for achieving an integrated, citywide transit solution to better serve communities across Ottawa. The specific type of technology needed to achieve this vision has yet to be identified.

To address the technology issue, the City of Ottawa is hosting an LRT Technology Forum on June 20, 2009 that will bring together the public, transit experts, technology providers and key stakeholders to identify the best transit technology options for the City's new LRT system.

You are invited to take part in the Forum on Saturday, June 20 from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at City Hall. Presentations by staff and technology providers will be followed by small group discussions. There will also be an opportunity to visit displays and engage with other participants and technology providers. Have a look at the schedule of events available on ottawa.ca/lrt-forum to find out more about who is speaking and when.

Want to learn more?

The City has prepared several background documents that examine the technical aspects of the new LRT system. The papers are available on ottawa.ca/lrt-forum.

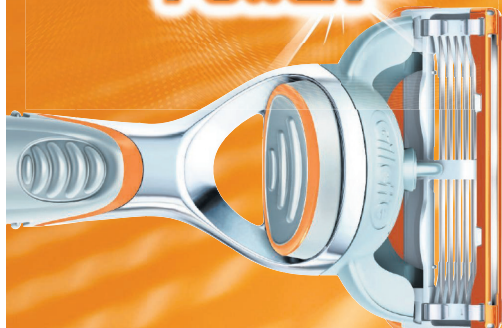

Your chance to get involved starts now

You can contribute to the technology discussion by:

- Reading and commenting on the technical background documents online at ottawa.ca/lrt-forum before July 15, 2009.
- Attending the Forum on June 20. Seating is limited for the small group discussions, so please register in advance at ottawa.ca/lrt-forum to save your spot.

New Summer Service

Revised Service – August 31 to September 4

A revised schedule will operate from August 31 to September 4. The revised schedules mainly affect express and peak period routes and extra rush hour trips on regular routes, which may be adjusted by a few minutes. New school trips will also be implemented. Revised schedules will be available at octranspo.com or by calling 613-560-1000 plus your four-digit bus stop number, or the Information Centre at 613-741-4390.

Ontario Civic Holiday

On Monday, August 3, a Sunday schedule will operate with extra service on routes 8, 95 and 105. Only those routes that normally run on Sunday will be in service. Check octranspo.com for holiday schedules.

Ride Free After 10 p.m. on Canada Day

On July 1, after 10 p.m., your transit ride is free with OC Transpo and STO. Extra service will be added throughout the day to routes 1, 2, 7, 8, 85, 86, 95, 96 and 97, and extra service will be added in the late evening to many routes and the O-Train. Watch for more details next week or visit octranspo.com.

Family DayPass Values

Your family can take transit to activities on Canada Day and the Ontario Civic holiday with one $7 DayPass. On Saturdays, Sundays, and other statutory holidays, a family can use one DayPass and get unlimited travel for the day. A family includes up to six people, with a maximum of two who are 12 or older. Buy your DayPass from the bus operator. Exact change only.

Chaudière Detour Revised June 21

Starting Sunday, June 21, Routes 8, 88 and 105 will once again operate via the Chaudière Bridge and will no longer loop around the War Museum.

- Route 8 will return to its regular routing.
- Route 88 will return to its regular routing via the Chaudière Bridge to Terrasses de la Chaudière, but will continue to serve Place du Portage in both peak periods.
- Route 105 will operate in a one-way counter-clockwise loop for the summer from Booth, via the Portage Bridge, Laurier, Terrasses de la Chaudière, and the Chaudière Bridge to LeBreton. Service between LeBreton and Gatineau will run all day, with service between LeBreton and Tunney's Pasture during peak periods only. In September, Route 105 will return to its regular routing.

Customers travelling from Place du Portage to LeBreton Station will be able to choose from routes 8, 88 and 105 at the stop on Laurier west of Maisonneuve.

On Sunday, June 21, new summer schedules go into effect on most routes to reflect the reduced demand for service in the summer. Customers are reminded that Route 117 will operate during the summer months.

You should obtain a new timetable for most peak period and express routes as well as the following routes: 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 8, 9, 12, 14, 18, 85, 86, 87, 95, 96, 97, 98, 101/102, 105, 106, 116, 118, 121, 124, 126, 127, 128, 129, 140, 146, 147, 148, 149, 152, 156, 166, 168, 172 and 316.

St. Laurent Station Renovations – June 21 to August 29

The local platform on the upper level at St. Laurent Station will be closed for maintenance and rehabilitation work from June 21 to August 29 inclusive. All buses will be detoured to the lower level of the station. Temporary bus stops will be installed on St. Laurent Blvd. southbound next to the station, and across the street at the corner of the bus roadway. More information is posted on our web site.

The elevators will also be replaced and may be unavailable for a period of time, which will be posted on our web site.

During the rehabilitation work, the Sales and Information Centre will remain open, except for the period from July 1 to 26. The Sales Centre will also be open on Saturday, June 27, and Saturday, August 1, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rideau Street Detour – July 6 to August 28

Routes 7, 12, 14, 15, 18, 306 and 316 will be on detour from July 6 until approximately August 28 due to the closure of the intersection at Rideau Street and King Edward for repairs.

The proposed detour for Routes 7, 12, 15, 306 and 316 will be from the Rideau Centre via Waller, Laurier and Friel to Rideau Street and in the westbound direction via Chapel, Laurier and Waller. Routes 14 and 18 will detour via Mackenzie King Bridge, which means customers wishing to transfer on Rideau Street can walk through the Rideau Centre. Buses will make stops along the detour routing. Full detour details are available at octranspo.com.

For up-to-date information about other detours, please visit octranspo.com.

ByWard added to Bluesfest

This year's Cisco Ottawa Bluesfest will feature one main outdoor stage with free programming in the ByWard Market, separate from its main site at LeBreton Flats, as well as concerts in 10 other indoor venues in the area.

The addition of Bluesfest ByWard comes thanks to a $1.5-million boost from the federal government.

The new site adds over 75 new artists to the festival's roster, including Serena Ryder, Kid Koala, The Midway State, Matt Mays and Sebastian Granger.

The funding, which comes from the Marquee Tourism Events Program, is a part of Canada's Economic Action Plan to stimulate the growth of tourism and contribute to the growth of Canada's long-term visitor economy.

"This is the sort of stimulus that we need in order to remain competitive with other countries," said Ottawa-West Nepean MP John Baird, minister of Transport, Infrastructure and Communities.

Bluesfest ByWard will take place for five days during the festival, which runs from July 8-19. The free outdoor stage will be located at the corner of York and William streets, and indoor venues include Capital Music Hall, Zaphod's and The Live Lounge.

NCC to create Ottawa River quality group

ENVIRONMENT The National Capital Commission announced Thursday it will be working with the cities of Ottawa and Gatineau to improve protection of the Ottawa River. A co-ordinating group for the river, with the priority of ensuring water quality, will be created. The announcement builds on the momentum of the recent Canadian Rivers Conference here that focused on how to protect Canadian rivers so they can continue to provide ecological, economic and social benefits.

"The facilitator or co-ordination role is particularly important due to the complex jurisdictional context of the Ottawa River corridor," said NCC CEO Marie Lemay. TRACEY TONG /

Probe calls for inquiry into listeria outbreak

INVESTIGATION Canadians need a full public inquiry into the death of 22 Canadians from last summer's listeria outbreak and increased inspection oversight in meat plants, a parliamentary investigation has concluded.

After two months of hearings, the parliamentary food safety report also found health authorities lost precious time warning the public because they were immersed in confusion and "turf wars."

Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz, who quickly dismissed calls for a public inquiry yesterday, did not respond to an interview request.

Critics agreed a public inquiry is needed.

"There have always been inquiries when there have been serious crises in public health," said Amir Attaran, professor in the faculty of law and medicine at the University of Ottawa.

"We've had it for tainted blood. We had it for Walkerton. We had it for SARS. We're obviously going to need it for listeriosis. But Parliament so far has not managed to push the Conservatives to do that."

Committee urges random DUI tests

Proposal would eliminate reasonable grounds requirement

Canadian motorists should be given random roadside tests to help combat impaired driving, a parliamentary committee recommends.

Conservative MP Ed Fast (Abbotsford), chair of the justice and human rights committee, said Thursday even though the move might be controversial, something has to be done because impaired driving remains the number one criminal cause of death in Canada.

Currently, the law requires reasonable grounds before police can administer a breathalyzer, but under the committee propos-

Argument

- The all-party committee stopped short of recommending the legal blood/alcohol limit of 80 milligrams in 100 millilitres of blood be reduced, citing the inability of the justice system to cope with the increased workload. The New Democrats dissented on this, arguing it should be 50 milligrams.

al that requirement would disappear.

Fast told a press conference the all-party committee decided random checks like those used elsewhere, including Ireland and Australia, would be the most effective deterrent available to stop motorists from driving after drinking.

"The committee has concluded that randomized breath testing is the most effective deterrent tool available to the police. It increases the probability of an impaired driver coming into contact with police and therefore increases the risk of being caught," he said.

Among other things, the committee recommended unspecified tougher sanctions for repeat offenders and those drivers with high blood/alcohol readings. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Liberal lead shrinks: Poll

The Liberals are still ahead of the ruling Conservatives in public support, but their lead has shrunk to little more than a single percentage point, according to a poll released Thursday.

A weekly Ekos survey for the CBC put the Liberals at 33.7 per cent, down from 35 per cent last week. The Conservatives climbed to 32.4 per cent from 30.3 per cent.

The poll was carried out before Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff agreed Wednesday to a deal to avert a summer election. The data show neither side could be sure of winning a federal vote now.

"An election would be a risky bet for both of them," Ekos president Frank Graves told the CBC. "It would be a crap shoot right now over who would win."

The New Democratic Party was at 16.3 per cent, up from 15.1 per cent last week.

Ekos said the Liberals had

"It would be a crap shoot right now."

Frank Graves, Ekos

opened up significant leads over the Conservatives in Ontario and Quebec.

Canada has had three elections since June 2004 with the last in October 2008.

Graves said the numbers suggest the public was "not all that impressed" with either Harper or Ignatieff. A full 47 per cent disapproved of Harper's performance with 33 per cent approving.

Ekos said 32 per cent backed Ignatieff with 34 per cent disapproving of his record.

The Ekos survey of 3,422 adults was conducted using a hybrid Internet-telephone research panel between June 10 and June 16 and is considered accurate to within 1.7 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

Murdered Halifax teacher's story lives on

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE
Metro Canada

Three-and-a-half years after Paula Gallant's tragic death, the popular Halifax area elementary school teacher is still sharing her love of art — and life — with children.

On Thursday, a group of primary grade students gathered on a carpet inside the murdered teacher's old classroom at Beechville-Lakeside-Timberlea Elementary School to hear author Louise Christie read her new children's book, Miss Gallant's Favourite Season.

"The story gives her the ability to continue to teach," Paula's eldest sister, Lynn Gallant-Blackburn, said of the story and colourful pictures contained in the book, two copies of which will be distributed to each elementary school in Nova Scotia.

"Even though she's no longer here, her legacy will continue for many years to come," she added. "People that knew Paula would almost suggest she wrote the story herself."

But Paula, a Glace Bay, N.S., native, never got to complete the chapters of her own life. The 36-year-old mother's body was found in the trunk of her green 1997 Chevrolet Cavalier in the parking lot outside her school Dec. 28, 2005. Her killer is still on the loose. Halifax RCMP spokesman Cpl. Joe Taplin said Thursday investigators are "hoping that somebody will come forward." The provincial government is offering a $150,000 reward to anyone with information leading to a conviction.

The book was illustrated by Joan Power and edited by Paula's nephew Dylan Kenny, 8, and niece Emily Kenny, 5, who sat beside the author as she read about how the art-loving teacher inspired students to use their imaginations and paint using the colours of all four seasons.

Paula's other older sister, Lana Kenny, listened nearby, using a tissue to wipe away tears. But Gallant-Blackburn said as time passes she feels hopeful Paula's killer will be brought to justice. "Our family, more than anything, needs closure."

Louise Christie reads her book, Miss Gallant's Favourite Season, to kids in Mary Stone's class at Beechville-Lakeside-Timberlea Elementary School Thursday. The book is dedicated to Paula Gallant, a teacher at the school who was murdered in 2005.

Accelerator in Toronto hospital could alleviate isotope strain: Network

HEALTH The Toronto University Health Network needs $7 million to begin building a particle accelerator that would greatly alleviate the need for medical isotopes in the community.

"It is totally shovel-ready," said Dr. Robert Bell, president and CEO of the network that includes Toronto General Hospital, Toronto Western Hospital and Princess Margaret Hospital.

"It has industry partners eager to go and we're just missing a little bit of money."

The plan is to build a particle accelerator called a cyclotron in the basement of Toronto General Hospital.

The medical cyclotron would produce a fluorinated glucose radiopharmaceutical called FDG that would diagnose cancers and other bone-related illnesses using positron emission tomography (PET) scanners.

Bell said the cyclotron would not eliminate the need for molybdenum-99, the medical isotope produced at the troubled Chalk River reactor that is expected to remain out of service for at least two more months, but could begin offsetting the demand in the Greater Toronto Area. He said it would probably take about a year before the cyclotron could produce FDG.

Severance pay not guaranteed upon bankruptcy: Ontario appeals court

LABOUR Former employees of a Scarborough, Ont., company that went bankrupt more than five years ago have lost their latest — and perhaps final — legal battle for termination and severance pay.

While the province's Employment Standards Act sets out minimum entitlements for workers who lose their jobs, it does not guarantee termination and severance pay when a company goes bankrupt, the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled yesterday.

About 100 former employees of Catelectric-Dip Corp. were owed nearly $1 million in severance and termination payments when the company, which coated car parts with paint, fell into bankruptcy on Jan. 19, 2004.

MANITOBA HudBay Minerals will close its aging Flin Flon, Man., copper smelter before July 2010, the company said Thursday, citing the deteriorating economics of the operations. The financial impact on the company will be minimal, but the Toronto-based company will cut 290 jobs as a result of the closures. HudBay had previously warned it may close the smelter next year.

Downed chopper's flotation gear failed

Emergency devices did not activate: Officials

Emergency flotation devices on a helicopter that crashed into the Atlantic in March did not activate, officials say.

The accident killed 17 people. One person survived.

The Sikorsky S-92A helicopter hit the sea off the coast of Newfoundland after its tail rotor drive gears stopped working.

The aircraft had been ferrying workers to two offshore oil facilities.

"The helicopter experienced significant forces during the impact with the water," the Transportation

Atlantic history

• The Sikorsky S-92A helicopter crash was the worst in Canada since a Swissair passenger jet slammed into the Atlantic off the coast of Nova Scotia in September 1998, killing 229 people.

Safety Board said.

It added: "Examination of the inflation bottles indicates that they had not released their compressed gas to inflate the flotation collars."

"The reason the collars failed to inflate is still under investigation."

The helicopter sank about 65 kilometres south-east of St. John's, capital of Newfoundland and Labrador.

It had been heading for the Sea Rose production vessel at Husky Energy's White Rose oilfield and the Hibernia oil platform.

Hibernia is owned by Petro-Canada, Exxon Mobil Corp., Chevron Corp., Murphy Oil Corp., Norway's StatoilHydro and the government of Canada.

Bank shares, oil pack a punch

FINANCE Toronto's main stock index ended higher Thursday, snapping a four-session skid.

Bank shares rebounded and a rise in oil prices boosted energy shares.

Financial shares recouped ground lost during Wednesday's session as fresh data offered hope that the recession-hit U.S. economy is stabilizing.

Shares of Royal Bank of Canada, the biggest driver behind the gains, rose 2.4 per cent to $45.09, followed by Bank of Nova Scotia, which ended up 2.6 per cent at $40.30.

The TSX is now down 4.9 per cent on the week after staging a four-week rally that included a run-up to near an eight-month high of 10,726.01 last week.

That high put it 43 per cent above the five-year low it hit in March.

"The market has had a huge move up and it's backing and filling, but I think overall we are looking for more corrective action," said Sal Masionis, a stockbroker at Brant Securities.

"It's very choppy and there is no real trend."

Court verdict gives boost to that little blue pill

MEDICINE The Federal Court of Canada has rejected a bid by generic drugmaker Novapharm Ltd. to be allowed to market a generic version of Pfizer Inc.'s erectile dysfunction drug Viagra.

The court said Novapharm should not be allowed to introduce a generic version until Pfizer's Canadian patent expires in 2014.

The court rejected Novapharm's allegation the patent is invalid. Novapharm is part of Teva Pharmaceutical Industries.

Much work remains for LGBT rights

Wendy Cukier

Pride Week (running Aug. 24-30) marks remarkable progress: Same-sex benefits, same-sex marriage, and recent human rights decisions make Canada a global leader on lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgendered (LGBT) rights.

Corporate leaders set the tone. Ed Clark, CEO of TD Bank Financial Group, proclaimed: "I don't want people to feel they have to hide who they are because they're afraid we'll discriminate against them. In fact, I look forward to the day when all employees feel that their sexual orientation is a non-issue."

KPMG and IBM explicitly include LGBT in definitions of workforce diversity and IBM includes gender reassignment surgery in its benefits package. Attracting and retaining the best and the brightest drives corporate commitment. LGBT consumers — the "pink dollar" — are influential. Moreover, research shows 42 per cent of straight consumers will not buy from companies deemed homophobic.

But LGBT people are still vulnerable. Last November, a same-sex couple was assaulted outside an Oshawa, Ont., daycare.

Growing up LGBT is tough: According to Mental Health America, the average LGBT teen hears anti-gay slurs 26 times a day. EGale Canada's 2008 survey showed 67 per cent of LGBT teens felt unsafe at school and only half felt accepted. Rejection or fear of rejection by their family often fuels desperation. Forty per cent of LGBT youth report having had suicidal thoughts and they are 3.4 times more at risk for attempting suicide.

On average, six per cent of runaway youth identify as LGBT and in some communities rates are much higher. LGBT teens are also more prone to high risk behaviours and drug abuse.

Susan Magerman teaches in Toronto's Triangle Program, the only Canadian high school program specifically aimed at LGBT youth. More than 70 per cent of her students, aged 14-21, do not live at home. Some have been kicked out. Some have fled abuse. Some are searching for somewhere they belong.

Triangle struggles to offer a lunch program and needs resources for breakfast because most of the students subsist below the poverty line. Most students have been marginalized and traumatized. Some have experienced homophobia, harassment and abuse since primary school.

Magerman says, "Once they are in a safe and supportive environment, where they no longer have to worry about their safety all the time, they thrive."

Her wish? "That all kids, regardless of sexual orientation, are supported at home, at school and in their communities so the Triangle program does not need to exist."

Remember, while we march with Pride to celebrate progress, much work remains.

Wendy Cukier is the associate dean of the Ted Rogers School of Management at Ryerson University, and the founder of Ryerson's Diversity Institute.

World next door makes Ottawa what it is

UrbanCompass

Steve Collins

metronews.ca/collins

When a crowd of demonstrators gathers on Parliament Hill, it's no sure thing, in this global city, just which government they've come to yell at. This week, for example, protesters contested the results of the Iranian election, demanding, "Where is my vote?"

A few blocks down Metcalfe Street, the Iranian Embassy, also the site of protests, is where Iranian-Canadians lined up last week to vote in the election, the only place in Canada they were able to do so.

The embassy itself has become a sign of chilly diplomatic relations since the death of Iranian-Canadian photojournalist Zahra Kazemi while in the custody of Iranian police in 2003. Canada downgraded relations with Iran over the incident, and a couple years ago, the Iranians erected a new spiked iron fence around the grounds.

Canadians aren't always known for being consumed with world affairs, and Ottawa can have its outbursts of parochialism, but the world is here, represented by more than 100 diplomatic missions.

The United States has named David Jacobson as its new ambassador to Canada, and hence our new neighbour in Rockcliffe.

As with all neighbours, relations are not always smooth.

A Saudi diplomat was arrested earlier this month after trying to evade police in a high-speed chase and crashing into a cruiser, but can't be charged unless his government waives his diplomatic immunity. This unavoidably reminds us of the case of Russian diplomat Andrei Knyazev, who, in 2001, killed an Ottawa woman while driving drunk. He escaped charges here, but was eventually tried and convicted in Russia.

If you've ever, before crossing an intersection, taken a cautious second glance at a red-plated diplomatic car, or noticed one brazenly parked in a no-stopping zone, you've probably lived in Ottawa a while.

Still, such bad behaviour is the conspicuous exception, not the peaceful rule, and having the world next door helps make Ottawa Ottawa.

When the government of Afghanistan bought a house on Argyle Street for its new embassy last year, the real estate agent who handled the sale was none other than Colleen McBride, wife of Mayor Larry O'Brien. It's a small global village after all.

And demonstrators in Iran may have to smuggle their message through a state media blockade via Twitter, but those who echo it here can be heard loud and clear.

CEO defends bonuses

Payments help retain value at Nortel: Zafirovski

Nortel Networks Corp. CEO Mike Zafirovski was forced to defend his company's decision to pay executives millions in retention bonuses even as the insolvent telecom equipment maker decided to stop paying severance to many laid-off workers.

"We are absolutely convinced that paying the annual incentive plan and the retention (plan) is critical to preserve value within Nortel," Zafirovski told a parliamentary committee in Ottawa.

Nortel has decided — with court approval — to pay out about $45 million US in bonuses for close to 1,000 employees, despite its filing for bankruptcy protection in January.

Losses for auto sector

Board predicts layoffs, falling production in '09

The Canadian auto parts sector will shed 36,000 jobs in 2009 as companies respond to the sharp decline in vehicle production, the Conference Board of Canada said Thursday in its twice yearly outlook for the industry.

The companies are also expected to lose $173 million this year as production drops 39 per cent. In 2008, they posted a $109 loss, the board said.

Canada's parts makers will cut costs by 34 per cent this year, which will include reducing staffing by one-third, in response to the weaker volumes as the global recession slashes sales of cars and light trucks.

"Conditions will be undeniably difficult in 2009, and many small- and medium-sized firms could potentially go out of business," Sabrina Browarski, a Conference Board economist and author of the outlook said in a release.

"The larger manufacturers, however, stand to increase their global market share when U.S. demand for automobiles starts to recover in 2010," she added.

The industry is expected to return to profitability beginning next year with a profit of $222 million. By 2013, the board said, profit margins are expected to return to historical norms.

RIM outlook disappoints investors

TECH Research In Motion offered investors an outlook Thursday that fell short of some expectations, sending the BlackBerry maker's stock sliding even as the company reported a quarterly profit that topped forecasts.

The share price's 37-cent drop to $86.79 on the Toronto Stock Exchange may reflect concern over a competitive landscape that has become more cluttered with alternatives to the BlackBerry, as well as lingering doubts about the impact of the global economic slowdown on spending

Earlier this month Apple Inc., a major rival in the consumer market, said it would cut the price of older models of its popular iPhone. Palm, a weaker competitor that could be gaining traction, recently launched its well-received Pre handset.

RIM earnings rose to $643.03 million US in the three months ended May 30, up from $482.5 million a year earlier.

Iran says it thwarted election day bomb plot

Iran's Intelligence Ministry said Thursday it had uncovered a foreign-linked terrorist plot to plant bombs in mosques and other crowded places in Tehran during the country's June 12 presidential election. State broadcaster IRIB quoted a ministry statement as saying several terrorist groups had been discovered, adding they were linked to Iran's foreign enemies, including Israel.

"Members of one of the uncovered networks were planning to plant bombs on election day at various crowded Tehran spots, including Ershad and Al-Nabi mosques," the statement said, referring to two prominent mosques in the capital. It said the plot was uncovered on election day.

Meanwhile, tens of thousands of Iranians, wearing black and carrying candles, marched Thursday to mourn those killed in mass protests against a presidential election they and defeated candidate Mir Hossein Mousavi say was rigged.

Chanting "Allahu Akbar," they massed in downtown Imam Khomeini Square, responding to Mousavi's call

Iranian state media has reported seven or eight people killed in protests since the election results were published on June 13. Scores of reformists have been arrested across the country and authorities have cracked down on both foreign and domestic media. Demonstrators held photographs of those killed, some showing bloodied faces, apparently taken after they died. "Our martyred brothers we will take back your votes," read one placard. "Why did you kill our brothers?" said another.

Mousavi, a moderate who advocates better ties with the West, addressed people in the crowd with a loud-speaker.

A spokesman for the Guardian Council said it had begun "careful examination" of 646 complaints submitted after the June 12 vote. Mahmoud Ahmadinejad was declared winner with nearly 63 per cent of the vote. REUTERS

Mother sentenced for killing three of her babies

FRANCE A French woman who strangled three of her newborn babies and stored two of them in the family freezer was sentenced to eight years in jail Thursday after a trial that focused on her psychiatric problems. The case of Veronique Courjault, who gave birth in secret three times between 1999 and 2003, came to light in 2006 when her husband, trying to make space in the freezer, found the frozen bodies of two babies he had no idea were his own.

"I am aware that I killed my children and that will stay with me forever," a tearful Veronique Courjault, 41, told the court before the sentence was handed down.

The couple were living in South Korea when her husband, Jean-Louis, discovered the babies in the freezer. Horrified, he alerted the police.

The couple said at first the babies were not theirs and they did not know who had put them there. They returned to France, where DNA tests proved that they were the parents.

Eventually, Veronique Courjault confessed that she had been pregnant three times without her husband's knowledge and had strangled the three babies. The couple already had two older children, now aged 12 and 14. Police initially suspected the husband of complicity because they could not understand how he failed to notice his wife's pregnancies.

He was cleared after an investigation established no one who had seen Veronique Courjault during her pregnancies had noticed any signs. Neither her physical appearance nor her behaviour had changed noticeably. REUTERS

Gulf of Mexico 'dead zone' growing larger

INFESTED The Gulf of Mexico's "dead zone" — a region infested with algae that consumes most of the oxygen, deterring habitation by marine life — could be one of the largest on record, with much of the blame going to agriculture and flooding, the government said Thursday.

The dead zone, located off the coast of Louisiana and Texas, could reach in size between 7,450 and 8,456 square miles this summer, researchers predicted. That is an area roughly the size of the state of New Jersey.

The largest dead zone on record was 8,484 square miles in 2002.

The growing dead zone means fishermen must venture farther out to catch crabs, shrimp, and other seafood. REUTERS

Balsillie wants to continue

Billionaire Jim Balsillie and Coyotes owner Jerry Moyes want a bankruptcy court judge to force the NHL to negotiate with them the possible relocation of the team to Hamilton, just in case no buyer is found to keep the team in Arizona.

Lawyers for Balsillie and Moyes — back on the offensive after a devastating decision earlier this week — also want the judge on Monday to force the NHL to determine by July 31:

- Whether Balsillie has been approved as an owner.

- Whether the NHL will allow the Coyotes to be relocated.

- What a relocation fee for Hamilton would be.

Rebound from Judge Redfield T. Baum's rejection of his offer to buy the Coyotes for $212.5 million, Balsillie says his company — PSE Sports and Entertainment — has no problem paying a "reasonable" relocation fee. And he suggests the NHL should prepare a second schedule for Hamilton just in case he's successful.

"PSE believes it is still possible to play in Hamilton this year," said the filing from Balsillie's lawyer. "PSE would prefer to accelerate the sale procedures somewhat (to end in late August) so that there is more time for the buyer — whoever it is — to prepare for the hockey season in October by selling tickets and obtaining sponsorships."

Balsillie's lawyer reasoned it makes sense for relocation bids to be considered alongside bids that would keep the team in Phoenix, with the judge deciding which bid is best for creditors.

"If there are no reasonable firm bids for the club if it is kept in Glendale, there is no reason to delay consideration of relocation bids, and force a lame-duck season with tremendous losses in Glendale," said Balsillie's lawyer.

The legal manoeuvrings are an attempt to change a schedule that calls for a Sept. 10 auction for bidders who want to keep the team in Phoenix. It also attempts to back the NHL into a corner. If the NHL rejects Balsillie as an owner or rejects the idea of relocating to Hamilton, it could form the basis of an anti-trust suit.

The Sept. 10 schedule was set in parallel to the one that Baum rejected this week, one that could have seen the team sold Monday instead. Baum rejected it because it didn't give the NHL time to consider Balsillie as owner and didn't give the judge time to consider the legal ramifications.

Opening round rained out at U.S. Open

GOLF Players remained optimistic despite grappling with miserable weather at Bethpage Black on Thursday morning which forced an early suspension of first-round play at the U.S. Open.

"I certainly thought nothing in the seven holes I played was unplayable," said British Open and U.S. PGA champion Padraig Harrington, despite going 4-over par.

Texan Justin Leonard was even par after seven holes.

Leonard stuck to his plan. He parred the first hole, then posted three bogeys and three birdies over the next six.

"Patience is paramount," said Casey, who was tied with holder Tiger Woods, who had completed six holes when play was called for the day. REUTERS

Megan Fox admits to gaining the pounds for her role in Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen.

Transforming Fox

Actress weighs in on role in blockbuster sequel

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Megan Fox is known for her curves, but for Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen, even those weren't enough for notoriously picky director Michael Bay.

"He's not super-big on really scrawny girls. He likes more muscular types," Fox explains while sucking on a piece of candy. "I gained eight pounds, and I ended up gaining another eight pounds during the filming of the movie."

For all her infamous beauty, Fox confesses she has horrible eating habits. "I eat maybe once a day, and I eat at 10 at night. I don't eat a lot. I'm not a healthy person," she says. And when it comes to exercising, she doesn't fare much better.

"I usually make it to one training session a week."

But the young actress, known for speaking her mind, realizes that type of lifestyle can't endure. "I'm 22. I mean, I'm prepared for when I hit 28 and I have to change my whole s— up, but for now if I can get away with it, I'm going to do it."

One thing Fox hasn't been able to get away with is keeping a low profile, not when she regularly tops men's magazine hot lists and her every move is chronicled by the paparazzi. But Fox takes a surprisingly diplomatic view of the celebrity industrial complex.

"Whoever they're taking pictures of, that's not you," she says. "You let it happen because that's a job, and I have to respect that job. It's how they pay their bills and how they feed their families. I can't s— on them for doing that."

Still, that doesn't mean she has to read what's reported about her. As a rule, Fox doesn't allow her people to send her press clippings. "I don't want to know. That's how I try and stay normal," she says.

While she's been enjoying the big-budget playgrounds of the Transformers movies, Fox is looking forward to a smaller project hitting theatres this fall: Jennifer's Body, written by Oscar-winner Diablo Cody.

"It's a really dark comedy," Fox says of Cody. "She's like a postmodern feminist or whatever."

The film gives Fox a chance to explore a male-female dynamic that has been bugging her for some time. "It's basically about how frightening young girls are, because they're terrifying," she says.

"You watch fathers with their daughters, they baby-talk their dads and they're always on their knees. And then you grow up. And each of you have had a girlfriend or a wife who baby-talk you that exact same way. And it's f—ing weird. Women are weird."

The Proposal

Director: Anne Fletcher
Stars: Sandra Bullock, Ryan Reynolds
Classification: PG
Rating: ●●●½

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Canadian actor Ryan Reynolds stars in The Proposal.

REVIEW The premise of The Proposal seems so obvious and ripe for comic potential that it's amazing no one thought to make it until now: A hard-nosed boss (Sandra Bullock) tries to avoid deportation back to Canada by claiming to be engaged to her beleaguered assistant (Ryan Reynolds).

The charade gets out of hand when they travel to Alaska to visit his family. It's just a shame the filmmakers decided to do it with such by-the-numbers romantic comedy execution (complete with a winking-at-the-audience race to the airport).

The movie succeeds despite its flaws, though, thanks primarily to the chemistry between its two leads. The older woman dynamic seems downright subversive by romantic comedy standards, and Bullock and Reynolds easily show why it shouldn't be. And their comic timing is perfectly matched.

As much fun as she's having with the character, Bullock still seems to be holding back, though. In the first ten minutes, the filmmakers spend an awful lot of time telling the audience how horrible she is as a boss, how everyone fears and dislikes her, but they don't let Bullock do anything that would warrant such a reputation — most likely out of fear of moviegoers deciding her employees are right. She pulls off the second half of the equation, though, in humanizing Margaret and showing the vulnerability underneath without making it too cloying.

Some small-town gags land poorly, such as the oddball (Oscar Nuñez) working every conceivable job — cater-waiter, exotic dancer, minister — or the only Internet access being a coin-operated dial-up modem — as if a well-to-do estate like Andrew's family wouldn't have WiFi, even in Alaska. Then there are plot elements that are brought up only to be dropped all together, like Malin Ackerman's red herring of a cute ex-girlfriend.

But even when the audience can see the next gag coming a mile away, the film still shines thanks to the performances of Bullock, Reynolds and the scene-stealing Betty White as Andrew's conniving granny. White's adorable, off-beat performance alone is reason enough to see it.

Year One silly fun

Year OneDirector: Harold RamisStars: Jack Black, Michael Cera, David CrossClassification: 14ARating: ****

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Year One wants to be one of those rare comedic treats: The smart dumb comedy. It's prehistoric parable that satirizes the foundations of human civilization, while also tossing in plenty of poo jokes to please the masses.

Unfortunately the overall balance leans more towards easy laughs than social commentary, but you have to admire the intent and the hit-to-miss joke ratio is pleasingly high. It's what should be expected from the latest comedy from director Harold Ramis (the brains behind Animal House, Groundhog Day and other comedy classics).

As we know from the trailer, Jack Black and Michael Cera star as a pair of slacker cavemen incapable of either hunting or gathering. However, this material comprises only the set-up of the movie.

The pair quickly leave their tribe to explore the world and soon find themselves stumbling onto a variety of biblical characters and settings including Cain and Abel, Isaac and Abraham, and the original party town, Sodom.

For Ramis, it's a step back

to his early days of Cadysack, a ramshackle ensemble comedy that lives and dies on the improv of the cast. Year One has the comedic energy and unpredictability of those early movies, but also has their sketch-comedy structure and narrative messiness.

The film ends on message preaching individuality over a reliance on society or religion. It's smart and appropriate, but feels awkwardly shoehorned into a film that works best as sketch comedy.

Black and Cera are at their best as the leads, playing their well-worn comedic personas and doing it well. Virtually every sequence comes with a scene-stealing cameo, but special notice should go to David Cross' cynical Cain, Hank Azaria's circumcision obsessed Abraham ("It's going to be a sleek look"), and Oliver Platt's sleazy high priest who insists on getting hairy-chested oil rubs from Cera (every bit as hilarious and disgusting as it sounds).

Year One is pleasant escapism with a brain. Sure, it's more like Mel Brooks' silly History Of The World: Part 1 than Monty Python's satirical masterpiece Life Of Brian, but at least it provides audiences with the opportunity to giggle at irreverent humour for 90 minutes without feeling guilty afterwards.

Cameron Diaz gets serious

Star plays mother of girl with terminal illness in My Sister's Keeper

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Movie feature

Cameron Diaz thought it was hilarious last year when the paparazzi thought she'd shaved her head. In My Sister's Keeper, Diaz plays the mother of a girl with cancer, and at one point in the film her character takes out the clippers out of solidarity with her daughter.

Of course, mix Diaz, a bald cap and an outdoor film shoot with photographers who watch her every move hovering, and what you get is an inevitable brouhaha.

"They say what they want to say to sell their pictures," says Diaz, who's no stranger to odd claims being published about her. But she still has her flowing blonde locks today, thankfully. "If I shaved my head and my hair was this long right now, they would have me in a lab somewhere," she jokes. "Keras-tase or L'Oreal would have already taken me somewhere."

Bald caps aside, the film involved taking on some heavy subject matter. After Diaz's character discovers her daughter's condition, she makes the controversial decision to have another child for the express purpose of providing the blood, tissue and marrow to save her older child's life.

For the actress, part of taking on such a complex, serious role successfully means being able to leave work at the office at the end of the day. "You have to put things to the side and you have to be yourself and be who you are and be with the people who support you," she says. And as casual as she tries to be, all this work dealing with terminal illness still got into her head. "It makes you really think about what you're putting into your body and what's out there that can damage you," Diaz says.

"You have to put things to the side and you have to be yourself and be who you are and be with the people who support you"

Cameron Diaz

"There is a reason. It can't just be coincidence that everyone's getting sick."

Diaz comes alive when discussing environmental issues. "Do you know where your water comes from? Or where your food comes from, or where the air that you breathe comes from? Thirty per cent of the smog in Los Angeles comes from China," she says. "That just shows that we all share everything."

Old, old world charm

InFocus

Richard Crouse

metronews.ca/infocus

Question: What do Charlie Chaplin, Rachel Welch and Brendan Fraser have in common?

Answer: They've all played cavemen (or should that be cavepeople?) on film.

Like Heinz products, movie Neanderthals come in many varieties. This weekend's Year One sees odd couple Michael Cera and Jack Black as the latest big screen hunter-gatherers, but they aren't the first.

Not by a long shot. Ever since film was first threaded through cameras the prehistoric world and its inhabitants have been a popular topic.

Silent film comedians started the furry pelt fashion trend. In His Prehistoric Past, Charlie Chaplin falls asleep on a park bench and dreams he is a caveman dressed in skins and a brown derby hat. It's a simple story that amused audiences in 1914 but can't be considered essential viewing today, even for Chaplin fans.

Flying Elephants, a silent Laurel and Hardy comedy about prehistoric courtship, gets its name from a sequence showing three animated airborne pachyderms (drawn by Walter "Woody Woodpecker" Lantz.)

More elaborate, and much funnier, is Three Ages, the Buster Keaton funny which sees him as a suitor in three historic eras beginning with the Stone Age.

In one memorable scene Keaton bare backs a brontosaurus, introducing the Alley Oop movie fiction of cavemen and dinosaurs existing together.

The most famous caveman-dinosaur movie has to be One Million Years BC. According to science, the last dinosaurs became extinct roughly 65 million years BC, and homo sapiens didn't exist until about 200,000 years BC, but it wasn't the history aspect of the film that drew in the teenage boys.

They lined up to see the cool special effects and Raquel Welch, who, in her skimpy fur bikini had a in Blood is a cheesy but charming B-movie starring the 7'2" Richard Kiel (better known as Jaws from Live and Let Die) as a love sick Neanderthal in love with a modern woman.

More popular but less charming is Encino Man, a 1992 comedy about two geeky teenagers from Encino, California who discover a caveman (Brendan Fraser) preserved in a giant ice cube. Even less enticing was the TV sequel, 1996's Encino Woman.

Caveman movies may not always be cinematic masterpieces — Robert Vaughn called Teenage Caveman, his 1958 flick, the "worst movie ever made" — but have remained a popular genre with audiences and filmmakers alike.

A scene from Bong Joon Ho's Shaking Tokyo, one of the three segments of Tokyo!

Tokyo! triptych uneven

Tokyo!

Director: Various directors

Stars: Denis Lavant, Ayako Fujitani

Classification: 14A

Rating: ★★★★★

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Omnibus films are by their nature uneven, and Tokyo! — a triptych of unrelated stories set in Japan's de facto capital — is no exception.

The strongest segment is French stalwart Leo Carax's Merde (which means you know what en français) in which a weirdly bearded, milky-eyed mutant (the great physical actor Denis Lavant) emerges from the Tokyo sewers.

Merde's provocations register even more strongly when juxtaposed against the comparatively restrained by directors Michel Gondry and Host auteur Bong Joon Ho.

Gondry's Interior Design, about a young couple struggling to find their professional footing in the big city, starts promisingly but predictably descends into lethal whimsy (and de rigueur handcrafted FX).

Bong does better with Shaking Tokyo, about a shut-in whose tentative attraction to a pizza delivery girl is bookended by a pair of earthquakes.

Intimately shot and gently surreal, it's an affecting little comedy about the seismic power of interpersonal connection.

PHIL BROWN
 for Metro Canada

REVIEW Eran Riklis' Lemon Tree is a movie tailor made for awards ceremonies. It deals with a hotbed political issue, features a well-respected actress in challenging lead role, and was based on a true story.

The problem is that while Lemon Tree is a tasteful and respectful movie made for adults, it's also rather lifeless and uninspired.

The filmmaker's intent deserves respect, but unfortunately director Riklis doesn't have much interest in entertaining the audience and making it to the end credits can feel like work.

Away We Go too pleasant

Away we Go

Director: Sam Mendes
Stars: John Krasinski, Maya Rudolph
Classification: STC

NED EHRBAR
 Metro World News

Away We Go is a sweet little film nearly undone by its pleasantness.

Following a young couple (John Krasinski and Maya Rudolph) expecting their child, the film forgets to give its leads anything to do except react to the world around them.

Krasinski puts his inherent likeability to good use, but it's tough distinguish his Burt here from his Jim on The Office, except that Burt is more of a nerd and has a beard. The real revelation here is Rudolph, whose comic chops are well-documented. But as the very pregnant Verona, she spreads out comfortably into a quiet performance that's surprisingly moving. With the subtlety of eyebrow raises, she carries the emotional centre of the film.

Director Sam Mendes also shines here, adding more evidence that he's adept in pretty much any genre or style thrown at him. It's as if his signature style is not having a signature style, which is refreshing.

Unfortunately, the efforts the director and his two leads are left in the lurch by the script, which hangs the story on a central relationship free of conflict. It's clear from the start that these nice, friendly people really do love each other. And by the end of the film, they seem to feel pretty much the same.

The conflict, if there is any, comes in Burt and Verona looking for a new place to call home. Their search leads to a parade of entertaining cameos, including hilarious turns by Allison Janney, Jim Gaffigan and Maggie Gyllenhaal, among others, and a surprisingly poignant meditation on modern parenting and regret by Tom Messina and Melanie Lynskey — an emotional note so strong it only makes the placidness of the main characters all the more jarring.

Emotional honesty anchors Goodbye

Goodbye Solo

Director: Ramin Bahrani
Stars: Souleymane Sy Savane, Red West
Classification: STC
Rating: ⓈⓈⓈ

PHIL BROWN
 for Metro Canada

REVIEW Goodbye Solo opens mid-conversation. A man in his 70s with a weathered face that speaks volumes about his life tells his cab driver that he's willing to pay $1,000 for a one-way trip to the top of a mountain in Blowing Rock National Park in 10 days.

The cab driver is a jovial immigrant from Africa who quickly guesses that the old man plans to kill himself. The driver gets concerned and soon becomes the old man's personal driver and confidant. A friendship forms and the pair are even briefly roommates, but the 10-day deadline continues to loom.

The film is emotionally devastating without a second of manipulation. The audience is simply given the opportunity to watch these two characters interact.

The lead actors (Souleymane Sy Savane as the driver and Red West as the old man) are so perfectly cast that they never feel like characters in a movie.

In Goodbye Solo, Bahrani has crafted a film that is emotionally and thematically complex without ever jamming his intentions down the audience's throat.

The movie simply unfolds with an immediacy and honesty that is impossible to ignore.

REVIEW Harvard Professor Robert Langdon (Tom Hanks) is back in action. Three years after he uncovered the complicated personal life of Jesus Christ in Da Vinci Code he's once again using his knowledge of symbology to unravel the mystery of a secret brotherhood called the Illuminati and prevent a terrorist act against the Vatican. What's more, he'll do it all in just one night. Sounds thrilling, yes? Unfortunately it isn't.

Dance Flick

REVIEW You have to worry about a movie that begins with a thug in a dance-battle showing off by shoving his head up his own behind. Surprisingly in Dance Flick, that leading gag is actually deceptive. The latest offering in the oversaturated market of spoof-comedies (a la Epic Movie, Date Movie, etc.), Dance Flick definitely has plenty of crass material about obesity and flatulence but it also rises to the monumental challenge of trying to scrape something original out of a horribly-flogged dead horse.

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Monsters vs. Aliens

REVIEW There's something refreshing about a movie with a title that tells you everything you need to know about it. Part Plan 9 from Outer Space, part The Dirty Dozen, Monsters vs. Aliens is all about good, old-fashioned escapism. Just don't pay too close attention to the plot holes and lazy exposition. The movie has an all-star cast, the kind only possible in an animated movie, led by Reese Witherspoon as Susan, a bride-to-be who grows to five stories tall after being walloped by a radioactive meteor on her wedding day.

Ned Ehrbar/Metro World

Night at the Museum 2: Battle of the Smithsonian

REVIEW In 2006's Night at the Museum, technology allowed Ben Stiller to realistically wrestle all sorts of taxidermy in New York's Museum of Natural History. Now in Battle of the Smithsonian, Stiller goes to Washington D.C. and pretty much does the same thing. Well, almost. He may have gone from security guard to shilling dodgy products (like the unloseable key ring) on TV, but Larry Daley (Stiller) is still drawn back to the museum only to discover his nocturnal pals being carted off to the Smithsonian for storage.

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Obsessed

REVIEW For a movie that's being marketed as "this year's sexiest thriller," Obsessed certainly lacks some key components. Like sex and thrills for starters. In fact, motivated characters, a sharper script and a consistent tone wouldn't have hurt the value of this so-called thriller either. In the neutered Fatal Attraction-wannabe, Idris Elba (RocknRolla) plays Derek Charles, a successful executive who suddenly finds himself the mark of an attractive office temp named Lisa (Ali Larter).

Steve Gow/Metro Canada

Star Trek

REVIEW In what could easily have been Star Trek: The College Years, the film brings together the crew of the USS Enterprise for their maiden voyage to do battle with a black hole-building Romulan with a chip on his shoulder (Eric Bana, with Mike Tyson-like face tattoos). In the midst of the crisis, the filmmakers reinvigorate well-worn heroes Kirk (Chris Pine) and Spock (Zachary Quinto) by sprinkling on liberal amounts of daddy issues — the same that make up much of the personal drama on director J.J. Abrams and producer Damon Lindelof's Lost.

Ned Ehrbar/Metro Canada

Terminator Salvation

REVIEW In this unwanted and perfunctory prequel/sequel slog, the robot apocalypse's chief adversary, resistance leader John Connor (Christian Bale) is trying to find his would-be teenage father Kyle Reese (Anton Yelchin) before the evil cybernetic empire called Skynet erases him, thus eliminating Connor's existence. Confused? Not as confused as supposedly executed death row prisoner Marcus Wright (Sam Worthington, who's very good in an underwritten role) who literally wakes up after a nuclear blast and spends much of the movie's running time stumbling about the desert evading android annihilation.

Chris Alexander/Metro Canada

X-Men Origins: Wolverine

REVIEW Leading the charge in three popular X-Men movies turned Wolverine (and actor Hugh Jackman) into one of Hollywood's most alluring big-screen superheroes. Now, with his origin on-screen for all to see, a mostly uninspired movie may nullify the mutant's mystique. In fact, although Wolverine is jam-packed with action and eye-catching special effects, at 108 minutes (modest compared to most superhero movies), it may actually suffer from its own succinctness.

Metro recommends

• Bitte Orca, The Dirty Projectors: Unorthodox indie pop zigzags wildly through a collage of styles with chorale vocals and nimble guitars.

• Préliminaires, Iggy Pop: Iggy creates a brooding, Leonard Cohen-like world — crooning French and English lounge-pop ballads with jazzy backdrops.

• Sunny Side Up, Paolo Nutini: Nutini branches out, delivering Memphis soul, vintage ska, British folk and a host of other genres.

No Age grin and bear it

Los Angeles noise-pop group plays soundtrack to movie about bears

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

There have been plenty of unusual gigs over the years — bands have played on the back of trucks, on buses, on an oil rig — but has any group ever played an original set of music to a movie about bears? That's exactly what Los Angeles duo No Age did last week in Seattle.

"It's an idea we've been talking about for a while," says Dean Allen Spunt, the band's drummer and singer. "It's a movie that Randy (Randall, the band's guitarist) really liked when he was a kid."

The noise pop group performed a 90-minute set of music specifically created for The Bear, an '80s French film shot in British Columbia that follows two bears as they develop a friendship and escape from hunters. It sounds like a wacky, and challenging, project, but Spunt says it wasn't as difficult to pull together as he thought it would be.

"We just watched the movie and felt out the emotions," he explains. No Age performed the live soundtrack at the Seattle International Film Festival, but the band is unlikely to bring its Bear show on the road.

What people can expect is a set filled with the infectious sonic blasts and grunge-like melodies found on their sophomore record Nouns. Spunt says the twosome might also play some tunes off their forthcoming EP, which they just recently finished recording.

The four-song disc, which will be out in September or October, will be more sample heavy than their last record Spunt reveals.

"We've always done samples, but it's a little more present now," he says. "I figured out a way to make them sound better. We write more with them rather than use samples to augment our songs."

"We've tried to expand things and maybe go in different areas that we wouldn't go in," Spunt adds. "It seems to me it sounds nicely saturated. I feel it's like a really nice painting."

Some fans will likely be disappointed that the group isn't releasing a full-length, but Spunt says the band has always been interested in "quick segments."

"I think concentrating on a full record is a lot of work," he says. "Sometimes you just need to get something out, something smaller. An EP with four or five songs is a good thing to have. Some of my favourite records are EPs."

Iron Maiden voyage a true adventure

Rock stars having their own jets isn't anything new. Zeppelin and the Stones were first. U2 always charters one for its tours. And when Metallica goes on tour, each member has his own jet so they can fly off away from each other between gigs. Meanwhile, the road crews are stuck in their bus bunks, humping tons of gear the old-fashioned way — in conveyors of semi-trailers.

Then there's Iron Maiden. Not only did the group have its own 757 done up with a special Iron Maiden livery, the band, crew and equipment all flew together. And in command of the flight deck? The group's singer.

During his solo period, Bruce Dickinson realized that maybe he'd better think about the future. "I thought to myself, 'I don't know if I'm going to be able to make a living out of being a musician in ten years,'" he told me during a recent interview. "Maybe I should have a second job or something."

After taking up flying as a hobby, Dickinson took a series of professional pilot exams and through a hap-penstance meeting with an old friend (a rock radio DJ-turned pilot), Bruce ended up with a first officer posting with a British passenger airline. For the last eight years, he's been flying both 757s and 737s for Astraeus, a company that provides planes and crews to other airlines. On any given day, Dickinson may be assigned to fly anywhere from Iceland to Ghana.

When it came to the Iron Maiden world tour, Dickinson went to Astraeus and leased an idle aircraft.

"It just happens that one of the absolute dead times for airline and charter work is January and February. So it worked out perfectly for us to take an aircraft out of the line for two months. The problem was (our equipment) wouldn't fit. The airplane just wasn't physically big enough. So we had to get a full modification of the aircraft approved."

After $500,000 in upgrades and hiring flight attendants, Ed Force One (officially "Flystar 666" to air traffic controllers) was routed from west to east, carefully scheduled to minimize jet lag and to make sure the band (and its singer/pilot) reached maximum energy for 9 p.m. — showtime. Bruce flew the band and crew through 112,000 kilometres while also playing 23 concerts on five continents in just 24 days. The experiment was captured on camera by a Canadian documentary film crew and the film, Iron Maiden: Flight 666, is now available on DVD.

Take that, Bono.

Music all about groove for CATL

BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Canada

When you listen to a recording on '¿Adónde Vas?' — 'a Ningún Lado', the debut by Toronto blues trio CATL, don't expect the pattern and polish that's come to be associated with the contemporary album.

Muffled, static-streaked and unconfined, the release is perhaps best characterized by the title of one of its tracks — Ragged and Dirty.

That unpolished quality of the band's brand of blues via Mississippi Delta is a tool vocalist and guitarist Jamie Fleming (who goes by the "CATL" nonsense pseudonym) says is intended to create musical malleability, allowing performance context to dictate what songs sound like, night to night.

"As we started out as a two-piece, everything had that sort of primordial rawness to it," Fleming says. "We developed this so we could play anywhere — we could play on the street, or someone's house."

The sound that began as a twosome, along with drummer Johnny LaRue, recently turned into a three-piece, with the introduction of Sarah Kirkpatrick who brings vocals, organ and percussion to the band.

"The songs have developed onto themselves as a three-piece ... (Kirkpatrick) kind of changed the sound in a better way, so we kept her," Fleming says.

But LaRue argues her 11-year-long tap dance tenure is a greater influence, contributing to what he says CATL is all about — the groove. "If you look at a lot of music—whether it's 'n' and roll, disco, or blues music like this — it all comes back to the groove," he says. "This is about the hips, not the head."

The live performance plus the groove — difficult to nail down live, adds

LaRue — is part of what Fleming calls CATL's throwback to a time when music was played for music's sake, rather than for an audience's consumption.

INTRODUCING something new
 AND worth sharing
FROM BREYERS® DOUBLE CHURN

this is love

This spring, Breyers® Double Churn ice cream is introducing three new crave-worthy flavours that you'll fall in love with instantly. Enter, Dark Chocolate Velvet, Banana Cream Pie and Chocolate Cheesecake — all indulgent and all you'll need to share the love.

Breyers Double Churn has created a few simple tips to help you share the love with ice cream...

- Host a girls' night-in with your closest friends and catch up over a "buffet" of new Breyers Double Churn flavours. Give everyone special bowls and spoons so they can try a bit of each or a lot of their favourite.
- Place a scoop of each new flavour on a tapas-style platter. Top each with an ode to its core, natural ingredient. A small slice of banana on Banana Cream Pie; a cocoa bean on Dark Chocolate Velvet and milk chocolate shavings on Chocolate Cheesecake.
- With everything from soup to seafood being served as shots at dinner parties, try serving the new flavours in shot glasses to give your guests a teaser taste of these three new indulgences. Make sure the Breyers Double Churn flavours are a bit soft to ensure easy "shooting."
- Try Breyers Double Churn ice cream cubes when you're having a get together or a night at home with your loved one. Put the ice cream in ice cubes trays, let harden, and then 'pop out' the flavours to serve.
- Try a Banana Cream Bellini Freeze this summer. Blend a scoop of Breyers Double Churn Banana Cream Pie ice cream, a quarter cup of peach nectar and a cup of ice. Serve in a martini glass and enjoy with friends!

Jonas bros. ready to invade Toronto

Amid busy schedule, trio will enter new territory when they host MMVAs

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

If there's any doubt whether or not the Jonas Brothers are still one of the most sought after bands in the world, just look at their travel schedule.

"We're en route to the New York airport, then going to Madrid, then London and then to Texas," says Kevin Jonas, the oldest member of the musical family.

"And then we're with you guys."

It's that last stop that thousands of Toronto teens are most excited for — the band is heading north to host Sunday's MuchMusic Video Awards. While they've been to Toronto before, this will be the first time the trio has ever hosted an awards show.

"This is a big deal for us," says Jonas. "We've been part of award shows, but never done something like this."

Unfortunately, says Jonas, he hasn't been able to have as much of a hand in the show's planning as he would like. There's just not enough time to do everything he explains.

"We have a tour to focus on, we have a new album out (it was released this past Tuesday), the awards show, so we have a lot on our plate," he says, adding that even though they're busy, "everything is checked off by us, so our hands are in everything we do."

However, fans can expect the band to play songs off their latest record, Lines, Vines and Trying Times, though Jonas "apologizes in advance because it might be a little crazy, we haven't had a chance to practice at all."

The Jonas Brothers

It's likely the throngs of screaming followers won't care what the band does, as long as they just show up. In fact, hordes of tweens and teens camped out for two days to get tickets to the MMVAs. All this fanfare is just another day in the life of the Jonas Brothers, who have gone from little known teen band to Disney darlings and music moguls.

"It's incredible," says Jonas about the success the band has had. "We're living so many people's dreams and it's a huge opportunity."

But being idolized by 13-year-olds can't last forever, and Disney's stamp of approval will eventually dry out. Jonas doesn't reveal what future plans he has, though, only pointing out that the group have control over their career.

"We are growing up, and while Disney's been an amazing partner, were just making music we love," he says. "No one's telling us what to do."

The Nintendo DSi is sleek and small, which makes it the perfect size to tuck into any bag and take it along with you everywhere you go.

New DSi offers fun with photos, music

KATHY BUCKWORTH
for Metro Canada

I am a very popular mom. With my own kids. Why? Because I have a brand new Nintendo DSi. And they have to be extra nice to me to get a turn.

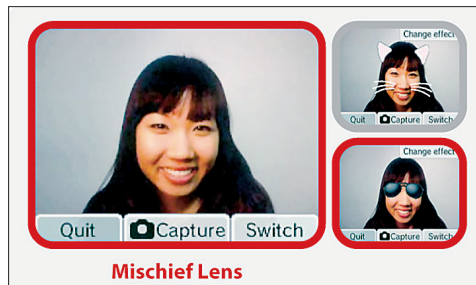

They actually have their own Nintendo DS units, which have been well-used and loved by all four of them, from age seven to 17. But the new DSi was clearly developed with a, ahem, more "mature" crowd in mind. Or so I keep telling them as I held on to it, saying, "One more minute kids, one more minute."

Let's start with the camera. "Fun" and "Photo" come together with the DSi. With a few pen taps, you can quickly capture yourself, or the rest of the world — anywhere you want. Amazing quality and easy to do. And the fun part? You can stretch these shots out by dragging the pen across the screen — distorting family members to the unrecognizable or emphasizing features for maximum comic effect. (I think People magazine must have used one of these for some of their "worst" swimsuit issues.)

Add in comments, draw

With a few pen taps on the Nintendo DSi, you can take pictures of yourself — and others — and distort them for comic effect.

glasses, frame photos, change colours, turn your brother's face into a kaleidoscope, look at mirror images ("Just my good side!"), and because this unit is sleek and small, you can tuck it into any bag and take it along for instant photo fun anywhere (such as waiting at a doctor's office). Pop a photo card into the unit and you can take it out and download the photos onto your computer for printing and sharing with others.

I loved taking a picture, erasing a portion of it, and inserting my own or someone else's face. I've always felt that I should own Cindy Crawford's body; and that my seven-year-old son should get the chance to be a Transformer. Done.

While you won't believe your eyes with the fun you can have with the built-in camera, hearing isn't necessarily believing either with the Nintendo DSi Sound function. Pop in your own sound card and make your music/words sound as though they're being transmitted through a radio circa 1920. Black Eyed Peas — Harry Truman style. Love it. Record your kids' voices and then play around with them by mixing them to sound like a parakeet. (Sometimes the difference is minimal depending on your child's natural voice, as I discovered.)

Between sights and sounds, the DSi is a great addition to any road trip with your kids, a rainy afternoon around the kitchen table, or even under a shady tree at a picnic or outside event. I like it so much, I tried to take a picture of myself on my DSi enjoying my DSi — and it is possible. Now if I can just convince my kids that a "MommyMinute" lasts much longer than the standard 60 seconds.

Music's stars will align on Sunday

BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Canada

When Danny Fernandes rolls into the MuchMusic Video Awards on Sunday, he'll make a red carpet entrance he says has never been seen before.

"I can't tell you what it is, but (fans) can expect something crazy," says Fernandes.

The young Toronto R&B

artist is tied with Vancouver-based rockers Nickelback for the most MMVA nominations, with five nods under his belt.

It's a dream come true for the 23-year-old who says he's aspired to attend the annual awards show since he was a kid.

And he's not the first in his family to receive MMVA endorsement.

In 2003, his older brother Shawn Desman won the award for Pop Video of the Year, which Fernandes is up for this year.

But even though Fernandes received one more nomination than Desman did six years ago, he says it's all love between the siblings.

"Maybe he's a little mad, but the little brother always wins anyways," he says with a laugh.

Fernandes won't take the stage to perform on Sunday, but he'll be entertained by such stars as Nickelback, Kelly Clarkson, Alexisonfire, Black Eyed Peas, Classified and show co-hosts the Jonas Brothers, who are all among the performers slated to appear.

Avant-garde New York siren Lady Gaga, up for two awards, will also bring her brand of electro-pop to the MMVA stage.

But she says fans can't anticipate how her performance will take shape, and that they'll just have to wait and see.

"I just have to consider the esthetic," she says.

"There's a lot of factors — is it light or dark out, how big is the stage, the positioning of the audience — you have to take a lot of things into account, but that's why we're planning very far in advance."

Whatever Gaga has planned, however, will be homage to her Canadian fans, who she lauds for helping launch her to fame.

"My whole career started in Canada," she says. "I'm looking forward to doing a really big performance to thank all my fans for all their devotion."

But it won't be easy. Used to playing full-length shows, Gaga says she'll have to edit down her regular performance style to conform to her MMVA slot.

"I have to pack in the emotional journey of an entire show into three and a half minutes."

"It's the same ball, on acid."

Going OutMetro's 7th Heaven: Metro taps what's hot right now

1 Captain America
COMICS Heroes never die. The Marvel Comics superhero will rise from the grave in a five-part series called Captain America Reborn, beginning July 1. Captain America, the alter ego of Steve Rogers, was apparently shot and killed two years ago on the steps of a courthouse in lower Manhattan.

2 Vulcan, Alta.
DESTINATION Thanks to the renewed enthusiasm in Star Trek and a boost from actor Leonard Nimoy, the little Prairie town is taking flight as a standalone tourist destination. Vulcan, which shares its name with the home planet of Mr. Spock from the original space series, has seen an almost 30-per-cent increase in tourist numbers compared to last year at this time.

3 Ghostbusters: The Video Game
GAME For those pining for the return of the '80s comedy smash, this is the next best thing. After several years of delays and a budget rumored to be over well over $12 million, Atari has finally launched the much-anticipated title. Original cast members Bill Murray, Dan Aykroyd and Ernie Hudson grace the game with their voiceovers.

4 Duncan Jones
DIRECTOR David Bowie's son, known as Zowie when he was a kid, is the new It guy in the world of films. Critics are waxing poetic about his space oddity Moon, which tales the story of an astronaut (played by Sam Rockwell) coming face-to-face with his doppelganger.

5 J.D. Salinger
AUTHOR The super-reclusive author of The Catcher in the Rye is back in the news, thanks to his lawsuit against a Swedish author. A U.S. district judge has temporarily blocked publication of the book, 60 Years Later: Coming Through the Rye, written by Fredrik Colting under the pseudonym J.D. California. The 90-year-old creator of Holden Caulfield accused Colting of borrowing heavily from his ever-popular novel.

6 Neil Young Archives, Vol. 1: 1963-1972
ALBUM It's a bit of an investment (the cheapest set costs about $100). But, if you even remotely like this iconic Canadian musician, then there's much to harvest here. From early, obscure performances to alternate mixes of essential recordings, the meticulously put-together collection shows the sheer range of one of Young's most productive periods.

7 America's Got Talent
SHOW Will the Susan Boyle effect buoy the fourth season of the NBC show? Judge Piers Morgan thinks so and even plans to extend an invite to the international phenomenon who shockingly lost in the final of Britain's Got Talent. The new season premieres Tuesday June 23.

Cohen camps it up as Queen's guard

British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen adopted his latest guise as an outrageous gay Austrian fashion reporter Wednesday for the London premiere of Brüno, which hits cinemas in most territories next month.

Hoping to replicate the success of his surprise 2006 box office hit Borat: Cultural Learnings of America for Make Benefit Glorious Nation of Kazakhstan, the 37-year-old has been typically over-the-top in promoting Brüno.

On Wednesday evening he led a brass band and dressed as a camped-up member of the Queen's guard, complete with tow-

"I didn't even know they were filming that. I would never have posed. I don't try to get attention myself. The last thing I wanted would be to be the most famous Austrian since Hitler." Sasha Baron Cohen as Brüno on his nude GQ cover shot ering bearskin hat, sleeveless red tunic revealing his midriff, ultra-tight black hotpants and knee-length boots.

Sticking to his habit of appearing only in character, he addressed the crowd in central London and called Brüno "the most important movie starring a gay Austrian since Terminator 2," a joking reference to Austrian Terminator star, and now California governor, Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Cohen has also appeared naked on the cover of the latest edition of GQ magazine and last month staged a successful publicity stunt at the MTV Movie Awards in the United States.

After spinning in a harness above the audience at the show, he landed face down in the lap of rap artist Eminem, exposing his naked buttocks in the process.

Eminem stormed out, although he has since confirmed that he was in on the joke.

Asked about the GQ cover shot, Cohen told Reuters at the premiere: "I didn't even know they were filming that. I would never have posed. I don't try to get attention myself. The last thing I wanted would be to be the most famous Austrian since Hitler."

Asked what he wanted to do next, he replied: "Ich really want to win a Nobel prize."

Dangerous life as a surrogate

HIGH STAKES Agreeing to act as a surrogate mother for Sarah Jessica Parker and Matthew Broderick can be dangerous, it seems. Two Ohio police chiefs are under investigation for allegedly trying to break into the Michelle Ross' home in a search for material to sell to tabloids, according to TMZ. Ross had moved out because of similar attempted break-ins.

Brangie's $1M charity gift

PHILANTHROPY Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie have donated another $1 million US to charity, femalefirst.co.uk reports. The couple pledged the sum through their Jolie-Pitt Foundation to help refugees fleeing the Taliban in Pakistan.

Earlier this week, Jolie recorded a message highlighting the plight of displaced people living in war torn regions.

The 34-year-old actress — who is a Goodwill Ambassador for the United Nations High Commission on Refugees — said in the video: "Please don't turn away. Refugees are the most vulnerable people on Earth. Every day, they are fighting to survive. They deserve our respect. Please do not forget them. Remember them on this day. World Refugee Day." World Refugee Day is on Saturday.

The donation comes just days after they gave $1 million to St. John's Hospital in Pitt's hometown of Springfield, Mo. The money will be used to establish an endowment fund to pay for children's cancer specialists and will also go towards building a new pediatric unit.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Veal and Mushroom Salad with Basil

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 lb (500 g) veal or chicken schnitzels, cut thin
5 tbsp (75 ml) olive oil
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
3 scallions, finely sliced
1 lb (500 g) mixed small mushrooms, such as button, Swiss brown (cremini) or shiitake, sliced salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 cup (250 ml) basil leaves
2 oz (50 g) Parmesan, in one piece
4 tbsp (60 ml) beef stock (broth)
2 tbsp (25 ml) port wine
2 tbsp (25 ml) balsamic vinegar
5 oz (150 g) cherry tomatoes, halved

METHOD:

1. Cut veal into thin, even strips. Heat 3 tbsp (45 ml) oil in nonstick pan over high heat. Seal veal briefly both sides. Add garlic and scallions; cook 1 minute. Transfer to plate and keep warm.
2. Heat remaining 2 tbsp

(25 ml) oil in pan. Fry mushrooms over medium heat 5 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Transfer to plate. Slice basil finely; keep few leaves whole for garnish. Use vegetable peeler to shave Parmesan into thin slices. 3. Place stock and port in pan in which veal was cooked; bring to boil and cook briefly over high heat, stirring in juices and any crusty pieces from meat. Transfer to bowl. Add vinegar and salt and pepper to taste. When cooled completely, mix in two thirds of chopped basil.
4. Combine veal and mushrooms; place on serving plate. Drizzle on stock mixture. Top with Parmesan. Garnish with remaining chopped basil, whole basil leaves and tomatoes.
